‘Rideshare’ website expands transportation options

Got empty seats in your car? Fill them with people going in your direction. The Rural Transportation Options Committee is pleased to announce that the Haliburton Rideshare website is live and waiting for you to post your ride.

What is Ride sharing? Ride sharing involves two or more travellers sharing a ride in a private vehicle, where both the driver and the passengers have a similar starting point, end point and/or route. For regular travel to the same place, this is also known as carpooling.

Many of us travel alone in our vehicles to the same places every day or every week for work, meetings, recreation or appointments. At the same time, others may be stuck at home and in need of a ride. Ride sharing is a great way to get to know people and expand your transportation options

“The unused seats in most drivers’ vehicles are the biggest untapped transportation resource in Haliburton County,” says Kate Hall, the local consultant working with the committee to get the initiative rolling.

Not everyone has access to a vehicle and while there are a number of transportation services offered through various agencies in the County, not all are available for use by the general public. That’s where haliburtonrideshare.ca comes in.

The Haliburton Rideshare website allows you to tap into a larger pool of potential rides beyond your immediate social circle. It’s a great way to use technology and grow our connections as a tight knit community. Whether you’re a driver with a ride to offer or a rider with a need to get somewhere, haliburtonrideshare.ca can help connect you with people going in the same direction. The site is easy to use and instructions are provided, and you can call 1-844-771-RIDE (7433) for assistance if you need some help.

Along with the website, the Rural Transportation Options Committee is launching a campaign to raise awareness about ride sharing in an effort to get people to share rides more often as a way to help address the need for transportation and the lack of public transit in our communities.

To connect with others to share a ride visit www.haliburtonrideshare.ca. Wherever you go, share the ride!

Rural Transportation Options is a part of the Haliburton County Community Co-operative.

Shout Sisters concert raising money for refugees

Haliburton’s Shout Sister choir is raising their voices for a local cause: bringing a refugee family to the Highlands.

The choir chooses a charity to support with its annual concert and this year the plight of refugees struck a chord.

“We know of no better place to provide the hope of a new life in peace and tranquility than the place we call home,” the Sisters wrote in a press release last week.

Shout Sisters are all about the love of music, which is reflected in the structure of their choir. “Shout Sister takes an unorthodox approach to choral singing,” the release says. “We do not audition and we sing a fun variety of music from pop and Motown to folk to a touch of country and blues.”

They describe themselves as “fresh and fun” and “warm and welcoming.”

The whole family is encouraged to come to the concert at the Northern Lights Performing Arts Pavilion in Haliburton on Friday, June 17 for the performance. Doors open at 7 p.m., the show is at 7:30. Tickets are $15, children under eight years old are free. You can get tickets at Organic Times in Minden or Master’s Book Store in Haliburton. You can also buy them from choir members or at the door.

The new beach body

Living Large

Humour by Steve Galea

Not that long ago, there was a very narrow definition of what a "beach body" was. Essentially, it meant the person who had one was slim, muscular, toned and athletic. I once had a beach body – and then I woke up.

Although the new definition of a beach body is much broader – essentially a beach body is the one you are comfortable with – most of us still strive to meet the old definition.

We're going the beach this weekend, so I started working on this today. And I hope to have a beach body by dinner. Here are 10 things I'm doing to ensure my old form returns.

1. Sand coloured body paint. I plan on painting my love handles a sandy tone so when I lie down on the sand, they disappear. True, this will mean that I'll have to crawl along the beach to the water, but that's OK. At least I'll have my dignity.
2. Push up: I'm doing at least one between now and our beach day.
3. Sit ups: Who am I kidding? It's probably not happening.
4. Beer: I will not drink one between now and the end of this column.
5. I lied about the beer.
6. Walking everywhere or until I get to the car, whichever comes first.
7. Practicing sucking my stomach in. I plan on keeping at this until I can do it for 15 seconds at a time.
8. Remembering to point and say, "Will you look at that?" every 14 seconds.
9. Getting to the beach early and burying all or part of my own body in the sand.
10. Wearing a swimsuit that looks like a Sumo wrestler outfit. Then I'll revel when people say, "You know, he's fairly slim for a Sumo wrestler."

Nature nut quiz show to test your knowledge

The Friends of Ecological and Environmental Learning (FEEL) is pleased to host a nature nut quiz show and networking event for youth and adults on Friday, June 10, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

This entertaining audio visual evening for ecoholics will be held at the Minden Cultural Centre Common Room, between the Minden library branch and Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Test your trivia knowledge regarding our lakes, forests, wildlife, minerals and other outdoor findings. Network with fellow environmentally knowledgeable peers and entities, and perhaps future employers, within Haliburton County.

Teams can be comprised of up to five members and can represent families, work or school groups, associations or clubs, lake or community neighbours, or any group of friends with an interest in our environment or good trivia fun. Perhaps your team will be crowned in 2016 as Haliburton's Ultimate Geeks!

This year's hosts are Minden's own Brigitte Gall and Michael Bainbridge, renowned neighbourhood celebrity and rock hound.

Register your team names and members for this event at ecoenvirolearn@gmail.com and start studying.

The admission for this entertaining evening is $5 per player.

Further information on Friends of Ecological and Environmental Learning and the local initiatives supported is available at www.ecoenvirolearn.org.

We hope to see you there!

May the forest be with you.

Remembering Pete Seeger

The Haliburton Highlands will be celebrating the legacy of Pete Seeger. Remembering Pete Seeger performed by the very talented Spook Handy is happening on Saturday, June 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Minden United Church. Doors open at 7. Tickets are available online at www.haliburtonfolk.com, Halco Electronics/The Source in Haliburton and The Organic Times in Minden. For more information call (705) 754-FOLK or visit www.haliburtonfolk.com.

Spook Handy will be helping to fulfill Pete Seeger's vision that younger generations will continue to use songs to make the world a better place. Seeger communicated this vision to Handy the first day they met. This vision resonated with Handy and he became engaged in learning from Seeger so that he could help to bring the vision to reality.

Pete Seeger was an iconic environmental activist, anti-war activist, children's activist, civil rights activist, guitarist, songwriter, and singer (1919–2014). In 1948 Seeger was part of a group named the Weavers that wrote and produced several old time favourites including If I Had a Hammer and Kisses Sweeter than Wine. Their success was affected by speculation regarding Seeger's leftist political ideals that culminated with the designation of the band as a Communist group by the FBI. The negative sentiment about Seeger's politics culminated with a conviction for contempt of Congress in 1961: a conviction that was overturned in 1962.

Despite the controversy Seeger continued his political activism and performed as a solo artist creating such well-known hits as Where Have All The Flowers Gone and Turn, Turn, Turn. Many of his songs were written to support political causes such as international disarmament, civil rights and environmental awareness; issues that are still near and dear to the hearts of many in this community today.

He gradually overcame the negative sentiments and gained support of the people leading to receipt of three musical Grammy Awards and a Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award, among various other honours. He died at age 94 on Jan. 27, 2014, in New York City.

Handy had the great honour of playing with Seeger over 50 times in the last 10 years of Seeger's life. Seeger had a hand in writing or rewriting many of Handy's own songs. Handy felt he was studying under a true master and learned much from his mentorship by Seeger.

When the Pete Seeger tribute concerts died out a year after Seeger's death, Handy made it his mission to ensure Seeger's tradition is kept alive to inspire new generations. He launched the Remembering Pete Seeger concert series with the goal of performing in all U.S. states, Canadian provinces, and as many other countries as possible before what would have been Seeger's 98th birthday on May 3, 2017.

This is not Handy's first contact with the Haliburton Highlands. He played here as part of the Home Routes concert series several years ago at the home of Don and Marie Gage. "We became aware of his connection to Seeger at the time of this home concert and have wanted to bring him back to do a tribute to Seeger ever since. He is a warm and inviting performer who truly emulates Seeger's ability to engage audiences," states Don Gage.

In addition to the evening concert Handy is offering a free guitar workshop from 2:30 to 5 p.m. at the Minden United Church. The workshop is titled Simple Measures for Drastic Guitar Playing Improvement and is specifically designed to help performers enhance their guitar playing skills.

Spook Handy has written hundreds of songs and performed over 2,000 concerts in his 20-plus year career. His songs have been covered by dozens of other artists including Pete Seeger. He has won numerous awards and accolades including Best Folk Artist by Upstage Magazine, Gannett New Jersey, The Courier News, The Home News and About.com. Spook has recorded four CDs with his most recent, Whatcha Gonna Do? topping out at No. 12 on the Folk Radio Charts. His song Vote hit No. 6 on the International Folk Radio Charts in November, 2012. Spook has also written music for theater and film.

Remembering Pete Seeger is part of the Haliburton County Folk Concert Series. For more information call 705-754-FOLK or visit www.haliburtonfolk.com

Your wireless telephone contract

In April 2014 some changes were made to the Wireless Services Agreements Act (WSSA) and the Wireless Code (Code). These laws cover wireless contracts for personal, family or household use.

Contracts for wireless services must be clear and easy to understand. Your wireless provider must also give you a copy of your contract, which must include:

- Your name and the wireless provider's name/contact information
- The date the contract begins, how long the contract lasts and when it expires
- The regular or minimum monthly service costs
- A list of all the services provided and the maximum usage you have for each
- A description of any limits/restrictions you have on your plan
- How your provider will calculate extra fees if you go above your usage limits/restrictions
- A description of any fees that you may have to pay and how those fees are calculated
- A description of any free or discounted items that you get under the contract

Cancellation:

If a wireless service provider does not include the required information in the contract, you can cancel within 1 year and get a full refund. However, you will have to give back any free or discounted items you received under the contract if the provider asks for them.

If you have signed a contract, and then change your mind, you can cancel at no cost within a 15 day-trial period if you follow the rules for cancellation. You must give notice of cancellation, return the phone in near-new condition with its packaging and you must not have gone over usage limits.

If your agreement was not for a fixed term and you did not receive a free or discounted device, you cannot be charged a cancellation fee.

If your agreement was for a fixed term and you did not receive a free or discounted device, the cancellation fee cannot be more than $50, or 10 per cent of the price for services for the time left under the agreement (based on a two-year term), whichever is less.

If you received a device for free or at a discount, a cancellation fee can be charged that takes the value of the device into consideration. The WSAA specifies the formula that the provider must use to determine the allowable cancellation fee.

You must also pay for the services you received before cancelling the agreement.

There should be no cancellation fee if you have had your contact for more than two years.

Repairs:

If your phone is being repaired:

You cannot be billed for wireless services you can't use if you received the device as part of your contract and it's still under warranty.

If your provider lends you a phone:

You cannot be charged for the borrowed phone.

You can still be charged for your regular service.

Stolen:

Let your wireless provider know right away if your cellphone is lost or stolen.

Once you have reported the loss to your provider: you can't be charged for any calls that another person makes with your phone if those calls add extra charges to your bill you can still be charged for your regular service.

You can contact the Federal Commissioner for Complaints for Telecommunications Services (CCTS) if you have a question or complaint at 1-888-221-1687 or by emailing response@ccts-cpst.ca.

Vignettes from life: the post office

By Peter Walford-Davis

Oh day of sadness! Oh hour of woe! I am getting forgetful. A friend of mine was going to celebrate his birthday next week, so I thought I'd buy a Birthday card, and let him know I was thinking of him. After all, one doesn't attain the ripe old age of 85 every day.

Stepping into the post office I purchased a book of 10 stamps – since the increase in the price, it is more prudent to buy 10 at a time – as they are cheaper, especially if one still writes letters in this age of electronics. Removing a stamp, I applied it to the envelope, handed the same to the postal clerk, and walked out of the post office. It wasn't until I arrived home that I discovered I didn't have the other nine stamps in my pocket. Oh, silly me, I'll return tomorrow and pick them up.

"No," said the clerk, looking through the counter drawers, "People quite often return those left on the counter." Not this time. A woman standing beside me, listening to my tale of woe, said, "Pretty expensive birthday card?" Sadly I had to agree. Obviously someone had found them on the counter, slipped them into their own pocket, probably muttering as they exited the post office: "finders keepers, losers weepers."

This experience triggered a memory of many years ago. My office window looked out on to the entrance to the post office. Probably frequented by more people than the number attending church on a Sunday; than those who frequent the local coffee shop, even those who did the weekly grocery shopping. It was the hub of the community. Everyone visited it, be they young or old, rich or poor. All possessed an air of expectancy as they mounted the steps, entered the lobby and inserted the key into one of the hundreds of expressionless metal boxes, dissimilar only in the number on its front.

Ah! What rapturous delight, when we open it and find…Excuse me for a minute while I check my box…What have we here? One bill, ugh! A magazine. At least I'll have something to read tonight, and, the jackpot! A letter from home!

I hurried to the car, eagerly anticipating the contents of the letter. Now some folk cannot wait, and try to secret themselves in a corner of the lobby, tear open the envelope, and begin to read, quite oblivious to all around them.

I saw an elderly lady standing under a maple tree, reading aloud a letter to her little granddaughter, who shyly clung to her skirt. "Mummy and Daddy will be home on Friday, and send you their love…."

A husband and wife, mesmerized by the written word, sit silently side by side, each engrossed in reading a letter from a friend.

I've noticed others sit, glassy-eyed, staring off into space, their minds many miles away, while thoughts like playful puppies nudge their memories, seeking to be recognized. A smile or a tear bringing them back to the present.

There's a sense of loneliness in the sight of an empty box. A feeling of being cheated, when the little door opens to reveal the antiseptic vacancy of emptiness.

Or, maybe watch the expressions on the faces of the people who ask at the wicket, "Any mail?" One day, I observed the following exchange. "Any mail for Tavistock?" the clerk turned to the neatly stacked alphabetized letters, residing row upon row in open boxes, like a flock of homing pigeons. She selected one bundle and quickly thumbs through it. "Nooo...I don't think there is anything here." The face on the other side of the wicket becomes perceptibly longer. The bundle gets smaller and smaller while the face on the other side is in serious danger of bursting into tears. "Noo.., I, wait a minute, the last letter in the pile bears the name Tavistock, written in a firm hand. Here you go, there is one for you." As she passes the letter over the counter, the face breaks into a relieved smile, the recipient hurrying out of the post office, clutching the precious envelope.

I often wonder about the elderly, who religiously visit the post office, only to come away empty handed. Someone was too busy to take the time to sit down and scribble a few lines. Or, someone forgot. Sadly, there are even those who just don't care. In today's fast-paced world there are still many people who are not computer literate, and look forward to receiving a letter. Most are very good at hiding their feelings, but deep in their hearts it must hurt to be forgotten.

It doesn't take long to pen a letter over a cup of coffee. Who do you know who would like to receive a letter from you? Just a few lines to let them know that you are thinking of them, and to let them know that you are well. Something they can hold in their hand, take out and read, and then re-read in the quietness of the night. "That which you do to the least of these, you do also unto me." It's an old Biblical quote, but mighty powerful when we take it to heart.

I hope that the person who lifted my book of stamps will make good use of them, and bring someone else a little happiness. Remember, one day you will grow old, and if you have remembered others, and took the time to care, your own post box will rarely be empty.

Rodeo returning to Minden fairgrounds

The town of Minden better saddle up because on June 24 to 26 the RAM Rodeo Tour is coming to the Minden Fairgrounds! For the second year in a row the live action-packed, thrilling and entertaining sport of rodeo will be coming to Minden with exciting events just as seen at the Calgary Stampede including barrel racing, bareback and saddlebronc riding and the world's most dangerous sport, bull riding!

The weekend kicks off on Friday, June 24, with an Ontario Xtreme Cowboy Shootout race followed by a DJ'd dance, and this is free with proof of ticket purchase for Saturday or Sunday. Gates, hospitality tent and vendors open up at 11 a.m. on Saturday, with an Ontario Xtreme Cowboy shootout race at 2 p.m. Starting at 4 p.m., a free kids rodeo will be hosted in the rodeo arena where anyone is welcome to come learn how to ride and rope like a cowboy, just before the RAM Rodeo performance at 5 p.m., followed by a video dance party hosted by the Minden Agricultural Society.

Sunday's gates open at 11 a.m. with the free kids rodeo at noon, followed by the RAM Rodeo at 1 p.m. Weekend camping is available, spend your weekend at the rodeo!

Get your tickets in advance and save $5. Advance tickets can be purchased from Minden Mercantile, Minden Live Bait and Tackle, The Pump Shop (Haliburton), V&S (Haliburton), Austin Castle Building Centre (Kinmount). Take advantage of these great savings go to www.ticketweb.ca or call 1-888-222-6608 to purchase tickets.

For complete event details and ticket information, please visit our website www.mindenramrodeo.com or LIKE our Facebook page, Minden RAM Rodeo.

Ayton's Tonya Becker charges for the finish to the pole bending event at the RAM Rodeo Series last year at the Minden Fairgrounds. It's returning June 24 to 26./DARREN LUM Staff

Love it or List it casting in the Highlands

By Jenn Watt

Vacation homes hold a special place in the heart, but as life changes, so too do the demands on the property. An older building might not be big enough for a growing family or a large cottage could seem cavernous for empty nesters. Yet the memories associated with the countryside abode or lakefront retreat hold strong, urging the owner to hold on to the property even if it no longer works.

This push and pull is what Love It or List It is capturing with its new Vacation Homes series, which premiered on W Network earlier this month. They are currently casting for the second season and are looking for property owners in the Haliburton Highlands.

"Families change, families grow," explains executive producer of Big Coat Productions Catherine Fogarty. Along with her business partner Maria Armstrong, she has created the popular Love It or List It franchise, which is now branching into vacation homes for the first time.

"Sometimes it's a couple where the kids have left the nest," she says. That couple might be considering a condo instead.

The show includes two hosts: realtor Elisa Goldhawke, who tries to find the perfect new vacation home for the property owners; and designer Dan Vickery, who remodels the home in the hopes of getting them to stay.

Fogarty explains that the idea for the show originally came up when Armstrong was going through a similar situation with her own property. Her Riverdale home was in need of renovations and she didn't know whether she wanted to keep the property that she loved, but needed work, or to move.

"It's extremely relatable," says Fogarty, who has the same debate with herself about her vacation property in Prince Edward County. "Everybody at some point in their life is going to be in that situation."

The producers are looking for vacation home owners in the Highlands – it can be countryside or lakefront – who relate to that dilemma to consider applying to be on the program.

"We really want to meet people who are in that debate and trying to come to a decision about whether they love it or they list it," she says.

There are few criteria for being on the program, only that homeowners need to be ready for a change since the end result of the process is either to stay in a renovated cottage or to move to a new one.

The current season has the hosts working on properties in Whistler, Collingwood, Muskoka, Prince Edward County, and Hornby Island, B.C. This season they want to switch things up and find cottages in new locations.

To find out more about the programs and the chance to be on the show, email casting@bigcoattv.com. To find out more about the shows, go to bigcoattv.com.

Don't forget to water my flowers

Story by Barbara Rosen

Every Canadian knows the golden rule for planting flowers:

Thou shall not plant flowers outside until May 24!

Even though I knew the above to be the case, I couldn't hold myself back from buying baskets of freshly arrived flowers at the supermarket on May 1 in Toronto. They were destined for my cottage in Eagle Lake in Haliburton.

"Please charge me for six baskets of flowers," I told the cashier at the checkout.

I transferred the six baskets with great care into the front and rear seats of my car. I wanted to give them light. I had no idea where I would put them until May 24. Then I drove to my condo and parked my car with the flower baskets in the underground garage. Then, I phoned Leo.

"Leo, can you service my car tomorrow? I think there's a brake issue."

"OK. Mrs. Rosen, bring the car in on Wednesday, not tomorrow. I'm too busy."

"Thanks Leo. "

I was concerned about the car. I was concerned about the flowers. For longer than my marriage that lasted (31 years when it ended) I've been in a relationship with Leo, my car mechanic. He's been there for me – a great mechanic, honest, wise, witty and very respectful. He always calls me Mrs. Rosen. I always write him a note when dropping off my car. Here's what I wrote on this occasion:

Hi Leo,

Can you check the brakes. They're making a grinding noise. I'll check back with you later.

Thanks.

Barb Rosen

P.S. Don't forget to water my flowers – ha ha, just joking.

And here's what Leo replied when I called back:

"Mrs. Rosen, your car is ready. Please pick it up." And then he added with a chuckle, " I gave the flowers Miracle Gro."

Are you curious about the whereabouts of my flowers? I carried them with great care from my car into my condo unit on the 20th floor. I watered them in the bathtub and placed them on tables in the sun. Soon, I will carry them with great care back down to my car and drive them to my cottage, and I'll be sure to nurture them with the teaching of Leo – Miracle Gro.

The next yoga, meditation and writing practice at Blue Sky in Haliburton (next to the Chiropractic Office), is Sunday, June 5, from 10 a.m. to noon by donation.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

WORD SCRAMBLE

Rearrange the letters to spell something pertaining to sun safety.
